WASHINGTON, July 14.-(AP)-The need for a blanket order fixing ninimum wages and maximum hours pending establishment of industrial codes will be taken up by President Roosevelt with Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, on Sunday.

Word that Mr. Roosevelt expects then to receive from Johnson a report on the necessity for broad federal action and the means for accomplishing it came today after two more industries had stepped into position in quick acquiescence to the expressed desire of the government for a voluntary hoisting of wages and curtailment of working hours, pending the formal completion of the codes to gov-

Federal Police Force Urged To Sweep Away 'Red Tape'

Abolition of Overlapping Jurisdictions and Resultant Legal Obstacles to Law Enforcement Advocated by Coe.

With the bootlegger on his way out as impending repeal cuts away his revenue from liquor, a new crisis of crime threatens the United States. What will the bootlegger, accustomed to easy riches, turn to now? Is the bootlegger of vesterday the kidnaper of today? Charles Francis Coe, criminologist, writer of special articles on crime, author of "Me...Gangster," "Swag," "Hooch" and other stories, has discussed and analyzed the situation in two previous articles published here. In this concluding as criminal as the crime under investigation.

A man shot a man in New York. He dragged the body to New 'ersey and dumped it there. Then he dashed to Delaware to hide out. They found him there. Three investigations were begun to determine what to do with him and where to do it. Two extraditions were necessary to 'ring the killer to trial. Mounting taxes and infinite delay for offended society!

Simple Case.

That is a simple case. Take any three states and counties and the same in would be true. All this abets the criminal. He runs to another state solely to accomplish the very delay that accrues.

A man shot a man in New York. He administration of business and the sanctity of the home. It will be treated as such. Then solviton will be genuine and speedy and efficacious. Then a change of venue will temper justice with mercy and "mercenary" with justice.

Cities Broke.

Until then the country will stagger along under ever-increasing police and prosecution costs. It will carry the endless burden of county bonds and county taxes. And by every indication, crime will constantly increase. How many of America's great cities are solvent today? Why?

While juries meditate what to do shyster lawyers produce a habeas corpy us and the criminal has flown the country with justice.

This was all too frequently true when the killing was a gang one and the habeas financed by millions in bootleg money. It is equally, all too true that the prosperity and safety of the criminal have been predicated upon his money and been predicated upon his money and tits corruptive power. Legal technicalities have served to liberate many a killer, and those technicalities have been discovered and allowed only personal discovered d cause of influence.

Disastrous Connection.

The connection between the police and the criminal is the most disasand the criminal is the most disastrous faced by society. Perfect it and society is utterly defenseless. It has come to its greatest fruition under prohibition because of lack of sympathy for the law and the ease with which millions have trickled into unworthy palms. The criminal always has it on the police who have taken bribes. They have it on prosecutors seeking re-election and judges dependent upon the same thing. It has made a vicious circle.

Well-planned murder is almost im-ossible to detect and convict. This due to the planning and the apparent lack of motive in people wno had opportunity to kill. We may kn w the cause and the source of murder but we cannot prove them in court. So murder became easy. It was easy because of this connection between the law and the law-breaker. Such nnections are inevitable in great cities with laws like prohibition bat tering at the foundations of honest

Must Break Connection.

Now, how break up that connec-ion? With bootleggers turned rack-teers and kidnapers, how handle hem? The kidnaping will die away because no one can protect it long. The racketeering will continue because business finds it cheaper to pay tribute than to risk life and property fighting. Yet we must break up the America. The federal officer may not be more honest inherently than the local one. But he has an esprit de corps which only passing contact with local conditions never can shatter.

National Force.

I favor a national police force for criminal investigation and prosecution. I feet that the people of the country soon will be forced to demand it. America's great cities have doubled police forces in the last 30 years, and the crime rates have increased twice as much as the police!

I see no need of county governments. They are an expense, a cumbersome method of maintaining political patronage, and generally a hindrance to direct and economical government. Why the city or village should arrest a man for crime, only to have him tried by the county and imprisoned by the state, I shall never understand. If I rely upon political surveys by purveyors of political patronage, of course, I might see a good reason for such roundabout methods. But I do not rely upon those. That is a political chicanery which long since has perished in the minds of a tax-burdened, crime-ridden people.

If every city in the United States did away with its criminal investigation police and turned that function over to the federal government, I believe crime would be reduced to its minimum in very brief time. If cities handled traffic, protected life and property and policed as the uniformed force generally does, there would be no important corruption. If, when nanded tratic, protected life and property and policed as the uniformed force generally does, there would be no important corruption. If, when major criminal offenses were recorded in any city, the federal government gave that city three days to apprehend the criminal, then, that failing, took over the investigation itself, there could be no corruption that would revert to destruction of houest investigation and expeditious solution of crime. What is more, I believe that day will come.

Always at Call.

The detectives of the United States will be like its soldiers. They will never know their next point of call. They will operate under centralized orders from Washington. They will have at their fingertips a complete international identification bureau. They will use radio, telegraph, telephone, photography, fingerprints. Bertillon measurements. Use, in fact, every science known to criminal detection.

Meanwhile, the cotton industry's steering committee conferred extensively with Johnson today on getting not only terms of their code but also conditions attached by President Roosevelt (proportionate increases for all eagners above the minimum, extension of benefits to office workers, etc.) into effect next week. All these conditions would go into force immeditrue because America stands for more ridiculous and politician-made laws than any other country. The hearing on oil codes called for next Thursday, July 20, was postponed until the following Monday to allow for conferences in the oil states and here to try to compose various troublesome to try to compose various troublesome disagreements before the whole thing is aired in public.

After Oil.

The various coal codes, submitted or in the making, will probably not be taken up until after oil is disposed court procedure is to face a situation requiring adjudication, then cast back as far as necessary for a precedent by which to judge it. In this age, when the machine and science and invention have altered the whole course of human life, legal lights frequently cast back for precedent to the judgment of men who never dreamed of a horseless carriage, who read by the light of a tallow candle, bathed in an iron tub, let their teeth decay as of or at least well advanced.

Johnson has chosen K. M. Simpson, deputy administrator, who has worked closely with both the big fuel lines, to run the two hearings. He himself, however, expected to preside over the hearings on a code for the steel in-dustry when it comes in. The plan was to bring all in line on a general hour and wage limit, with supplementary codes to handle special differences between dry goods, groceries, drugs, etc. Some of the groceries, drugs, etc. Some of the recovery officials believed the general code might be submitted formally early next week. Two ransom notes, neither bearing the handwriting of the banker, have been received, the agents, Orville S. Catt and Lawrence Keller, said at an afternoon conference with reporters. "We have nothing to announce," they said. "We are still negotiating but the kidnapers have not met our demands." And Break Back of Crime

In a recent notorious case three grand juries were conducting separate investigations of the same crime. Three prosecutors were seeking solution of the crime and conviction of the same criminal. Three state governments were trying to find what through absurd extradition folthe same criminal was living a riotous life on the proceeds of his endeavors. That is not unusual, but it is ridiculous. The cost is beyond all sense and reason. It is as criminal as the crime under investigation.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

WHISPERS WASHINGTON, July 14 .- This move to put all postmasters under the civil service has more behind it than meets the naked eye.

Such a step was badly needed at this time to kill off a whispered story going around the country that the democrats at last were ready to throw the republicans out of the postoffices with a vengeance—that the spoils system was to be restored. It did not take Postmaster-General Farley long to hear about it.

PURPOSES Hot denials were issued by Mr. Farley. The whispered story, however, was nowhere publicly printed, so no one except the insiders knew what the postmaster-general was shooting at and his denials did not attract much at-Something else was necessary. The new postmaster movement filled the bill better than you would ever suspect. It may be true that it takes politics out of the postoffice as much as it can be, pending an administration by angels. But there is more to it than that. What it will do first is to take republicans out of the postoffice and put civil service democrats in Also it will put the democrats in permanently. The next republican administration, if there is ever one, must change the civil service law to get them out. At least that is the interpretation being put on it by cheering congressmen and job-hunters. The practical way it will work is described by a competent democratic congressional authority privately as follows:

All first, second and third-class postmasters in office now must take civil service examinations. They are all republicans. Democratic candidates for the jobs also will take examinations. will be graded 50 per cent on business ability. Democrats will do

The three with the highest marks will be considered final candidates. Their names will be submitted to the democratic congressman. He will make the final choice. A republican might squeeze through under that system. If he did it would be an oversight.

The democrats are actually not being much more ruthless now than successful parties usually are.

The thing that makes it seem worse this time is that they are going further down the line than the republicans did 12 years -so many people are out of jobs today that any kind of a government position is legitimate spoils.

RUSH The offices of those who are supposed to have influence, with the democratic administration look like basement bargain counters these days, Many seeking jobs are obviously in

The offices of Senators Byrd, of Virginia; Harrison, of Mississippi, and King, of Utah, are swamped all the time. Senator King's position is probably the worst. He is trying to keep all those jobs which ex-Senator Smoot got for the citizens of Utah.

MASTER The most artful patronage dispenser of them all is William F. Stevenson. He is chairman of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. His old South Carolina friends call him "Seaboard Bill." but the reason is obvious. His new intimates here have switched it to "Steamboat Bill" for no reason at all. In an admiring way, a democratic politician recently suggested Mr. Stevenson should be charged with depopulating the state of South Carolina. He was trying to infer that Mr. Stevenson had in-stalled most of the citizens of that state in his government agency. Mr. Stevenson has already announced that the merit system all right in its place. He is also the author of the line which is a slogan, for the job-seeking army:

'Naturally we are not choosing republicans to carry out policies of a democratic administration.'

RYE The smart boys who are buying rye instead of wheat are not so smart. They have figured out that the processing will go on wheat but not on rye. They do not know that the law permits the taxing of any competing article. The brain trustees do know it and may act.

NOTES The story going around the country that Mr. Roosevelt might make up a super-cabinet composed of Messrs. Hoover, Meyer and Baruch is a pure invention. The highest administration officials considered it a good joke when they heard it.

The excuse that Professor Berle is only working out regulations for the Glass bank law sounds somewhat thin. army of technical regulation experts in the treasury who can take Railroad officials say car loadings will soon be running 100,-000 a week and more. They see no reason to stop cheering.

A degree of hardship on individuals always result from a change in administration. At least two republicans who lost minor places have committed suicide. They were no worse off than many of the democrats seeking their jobs.

Cotton Plan Failure In Fulton Forecast

With only three districts not heard from Friday, it was freely predicted that Fulton county will fail to meet its acreage quota under the Wallace cotton reduction plan. It also was the onsensus of cotton men generally that the government set the quota-8,000 acres-too high.

S. D. Truitt, county agent, Friday had figures in his possession showing that a total of 793 farmers through contracts, have agreed to reduce cotton acreage by 3.767 acres, or 1.351 bales. Mr. Truitt was of the opinion that in the three districts still to report, there are not more than 200 acres pledged to reduction. If this estimate is accurate, Fulton county will pledge approximately half of its quota.

It was said that 90 per cent of the farmers in the county have pledged reductions and that the remainder are small planters with but a few acres. The three districts still to be heard from are Sandtown and Tell in old Campbell county and Ocee in cld Milton

More than 2,000 small motion picture theaters will reopen during the next 18 months, according to George
J. Schaefer, general manager of Paramount, revealing an actual change in the tides of the gelatine industry.

Some of the motivating factors in this pick-up will be: Prohibition repeal—the failure of the double-feature bill which has lost out through its own weight—increase in admission prices which will advance with other pals in the Steiner-Grady row Friends in the Steiner-Grady row Friends prices which will advance with other commodities—the relaxation which will permit producers to experiment again in new fields—and unusual film stories which the public always want.

Schaefer, who covers the American continent frequently in the course of his work, both by air and rail, says that only recently has he sensed an important reaction towards hopefulness and definitely established prosperity. Brian. Alice will not be chosen for an-

Grant rarely looks the part of a brilliant player. Only now and then, as in the closing test with Reese, does he emerge from his shell and give a brilliant display of ability.

Usually he simply gets the ball back. Rarely does he fail. He gets the ball back, always and inexorably. It usually comes back to where the opponent can reach it. Now and then he mixes in teasing drop shots. But the ball is always there. Finally, in desperation, his opponent nets the ball or hits it out of bounds.

Grant undoubtedly has the greatest pair of legs in this particular tournament. His legs have all the stamina of a giant's underpinnings. He reaches all the shots his opponents send to He races from back-hand court to the other one, getting Prusoff is a lawn tennis champion. He plays mostly on grass courts. The courts at Seattle are covered with turf imported from the famous Wimbledon courts of England.

The south, unfortunately, cannot have the grass courts. The type grass demanded will not grow in the south. It needs the colder, damper climates.

Carlos Moore again came to the rescue—his third time in the three games played by the Crackers since he joined the club—and distinguished himself for the remainder of the route, giving only one run and three hits in five and two-thirds innings. GOOD RELIEVING.

The relief pitching of Aube and Moore was really the only redeeming feature of the day in so far as the Crackers were concerned. Had their mates been able to do anything at all with Alex McColl, this might have been a different story.

Moore's employ of the change of pace was a thing of beauty to the students of good pitching. He alternated the slow and fast stuff perfectly. The first two Cracker runs in the first game came on home runs from the bats of Sington and Bonowitz in successive innings. Bonowitz had the distinction of driving both Barfoot and Coleman, Niehoff's starting pitchers, from the mound with triples in the fifth of the first, and first of the second games, respectively. Mihalic led the hitting for the Lookouts with five hits, driving in four runs in the first game.

The Crackers did drive the veteran Clyde Barfoot to cover in the fifth of the first game when they threatened to tie the score, but McColl came in to pour cold water on the rally. After Bonowitz's rousing triple had routed Coleman in the first inning of the nightcap and scored tworuns, the Crackers got after Ed Linke, his successor, again in the third with the result that Bert Niehoff yanked him after Chatham's hot slngle through the box had scored Neisler. McColl retired Susko and Bonowitz and let the Crackers have only one more run after that. McColl did not get credit for either victory, but he undoubtedly saved both contests. Hoke Cooley, the sensation of the recent Georgia state amateur tournament, won the Municipal caddy tournament Friday morning on the John A. White course with a 4-3 victory over his twin brother, Joe.

Joe sprang the major upset of the caddy tourney when he eliminated Teddy Hayes in the semi-fanals Thursday, but could not match the string of pars and birdies that Hoke shot at him in the title match Friday. Hoke won the medal and continued to play good golf all week to win the crown. He played one of his best rounds Thursday and was under par when the match ended. His Friday round was steady and consistent all round was steady and consistent all the Cracker pitchers had spotted the opposition.

In the first game, Ken Holloway, the south Georgian, was shellacked for seven runs in the first two innings. Jack Aube relieved him in the second and pitched splendid relief ball until taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth, allowing only one more run. Carlos Moore pitched the ninth and allowed one more.

In the second game, Bert Niehoff started Lefty Frank Coleman, an ex-Cracker, who bowed out of the picture after walking Chatham and Susko and letting Bonowitz triple to the score board for two runs in the very first inning. But Rufus Meadows, Atlanta's nomination, was greeted with a five-run barrage in the second on six hits, two of which were balls that took crazy bounds over Chatham and Dashiell.

Carlos Moore again came to the Coughlin took his set by playing against Buxby's backhand, which became a bit erratic as the match were on. The southerner, however, refused to use it in his winning fourth set, when he ran around most of the of-ferings that Coughlin aimed to his left

The victory of the mother country today was achieved on the famous center court before 2,500 fans.

Perry was the outstanding star of the play. He never dropped a service game and inspired the veteran Hughes, who started lamely but regained his best form in the last stages of the match, where it was needed most. On his two-day showing Perry should give Crawford a brilliant battle tomorrow.

Turnbull, the young Australian giant who replaced Crawford as giant who replaced Crawford as Quist's partner in a last-minute strategic shift before the start of the doubles, proved an extremely fortunate choice. His game was as powerful as Perry's, but he lacked the consistent accuracy of England's first ranked player. It was Turnbull, in the end, who was surer of his ground shots and low volleys than the diminushots and low volleys than the diminushots and low volleys than the diminushors. shots and low volleys than the diminitive Quist, who failed to maintai his reputation as Australia's bedoubles player.

SCRAPPY MATCH.

The young Austrilians opened the battle in scrappy fashion and if they had had a bit better luck in the first set might have proved more dangerous. They got as far as 5-all in the opening duel before Perry and Hughes seized upon them, broke through service to take a 6-5 lead, and then sailed through the payt game on Hughes'

The sudden onslaught shook young Quist's confidence, apparently, and the British rally was prolonged through the second set as Perry played sensationally. A break in Quist's service at the start gave Perry and Hughes the advantage and they ploughed along, winning and losing on service, until the Australians ran out of games and were beaten, 6-4.
When Turnbull's inspired play in the face of defeat gave the Australians a 3-0 lead in games in the third set, the Englishmen smartly followed along, waiting for the rest period and a fresh start, rather than to attempt to settle the issue then and there.

The Australians took the third set, The Australians took the third set, 6-3, but when the teams came back to the court Hughes and Perry were masters again. Once more they shot into a quick lead, 3-0, by breaking Turnbull's service and holding their own. They swapped games evenly thereafter, the last one, giving England the set, 6-3; the match, and a fine lead to carry into tomorrow's deciding play.

Tigrett drew attention to the fact that not nearly enough notice had been given to the election of Reggie Fleet, of Atlanta, as secretary, and Malon Courts, of Atlanta, as treasurer. 'Bull' Montana Episode MOORE, HUGHES Linked Dempsey, 'Kotsy' IN SEMI-FINALS

Pair Engineered Fake Tryst Between Film's "Ugly Man" and Mysterious Lady.

By Jimmy Jones.

Jack Dempsey was fascinated by the personality of the late George Kotsonaros—particularly by Kotsonaros' ears. He liked to fondle the large, bulbous lobes of the veteran wrestler in his big, strong hands, and referred to them as "pin cushions."

More than one instance of Dempsey's fondness for the wiry little Greek who met such a tragic death Thursday was shown on the last visit of the ex-champion to Atlanta. He insisted on taking Kotsonaros everywhere he went around the city, and at banquets and luncheons he always saw to it that George occupied a chair close to his own.

It was on these occasions that Dempsey indulged in his playful pranks at the expense of the little Greek. He recounted some of George's "heavy" roles in the movies with keen delight and enriched them with some of his own interpolations. And always Kotsonaros, with his age points of the leading Washington Senators, who bowed to Chicago.

This victory gave the Yanks a clean sweep of their four-game series with the Browns.

The New Yorkers combined nine of their 12 hits for bursts of three runs in the first and eight runs in the sixth. 13 Yankee batsmen paraded to the plate, driving out seven hits, including Dickey's four-bagger with one on base.

STARTER ROUTED.

George Blaeholder, the Browns' starting pitcher, was sent to the showers in this frame after seven runs came in. Sam Gray completed the game. Van Atta and Brown allowed the Browns eight hits.

Chicago blanked the Senators, 4 to 0, as Walter Miller held Joe on the fourth, twice in the sixth and once in the eighth. Al Smith was making the brown derby famous in his campaign at the time, and the Bull, being a loyal supporter of Al's, was wearing one cocked at a rakish angle over his cauliflowered ears.

THE BULL ARRIVES.

Dempsey and Kotsonaros had concealed themselves in the corridor to await their victim's arrival. Imagine their delight when Montana knocked coyly on the door and awaited expectantly for a reply. None came and Montana rapped again. Finally a heavy masculine voice roared drowsity for a reply with the door was thrust viciously open and a tired guest, suddenly disturbed in his slumbers, stuck his head out and demanded of the intruder: THE BULL ARRIVES.

"What the devil do you want?" "What the devil do you want?"
Montana apologized sheepishly and explained that there must have been a mistake. From their point of vantage, Dempsey and Kotsonaros were holding their sides while Montana went down to the lobby to seek further information at the clerk's desk. Kotsonaros was easily Dempsey's favorite of all the wrestlers, although he trained with Jim Londos for one bout. Perhaps it was his affection bout. Perhaps it was his affection for Jerry (The Greek) Luvadis, his own faithful trainer, that gave him his liking for the Greek wrestlers. He

Reader, do you know why most en want money? Perhaps, you think is the tangible evidence of success It is the tangable evidence of success that they would possess. Perhaps, you think it is their craving for the luxury and ease that money buys. Perhaps, you think it is greediness that makes men fight for money. No, you are wrong if you suppose that any of these considerations is the prime factor in the desire for money. Men want money because they think it spells power. They have looked around them and consciously or un-consciously they have been impressed by the fact that the men who have money appear to have power. They have seen the rich buying everything that contributes to comfort and con-

They have seen the rich exercising great personal influence in their com-munities. They have seen the rich munities. They have seen the rich buying everything that tongue could wish for, and they have foolishly imagined that the rich were able to buy everything that heart could desire. In this they were wrong. For the heart of the poor man, yearning continually for love; and money will not buy it. Money will buy everything that tends to power except one thing that is the very crux of power: that thing is love.

Oh, yes, money may set a man up in his community to such an extent that he is the cynosure of all eyes. It will enable him to out fit himself and his family in such a way that they are distinguished from their neighbors and friends. It may put into his hands a big stick that he can wield at will over companions and competitors. It may enable him to crush the little man that gets in his way in busiman that gets in his way in busi-ness or politics or society. It may enable him to entertain lavishly, to give liberally, to summon the sycophants to worship at his shrine. But with all of this if he hasn't learned to love his power over them lacks that dynamic quality which

Well, think well of your own experiences and of the experiences of your acquain tances; try to recall a single in-stance in which the power of money has prevailed against the power of nas prevailed against the power of love. The most arrogant and imperious moneyed man is frequently putty in the hands of some woman he lives. When she won his heart, she won control of his will. "Cherchez la femme," say the French when they look for the secret spring of a man's conthe secret spring of a man's conduct and the real source of his power. Why? "But," you protest, "this is intro-ducing the element of sex into the argument and everyone knows that sex is the dominant force in life." Culbertson on Contract

Obvious Overbidding

BY ELY CULBERTSON. World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

In Contract Bridge the bidding sometimes follows such lines that a contract is reached which appears, on its face, impossible of fulfillness. Confronted with such a situation, timid and weak-hearted players immediately give up, but those who are resourceful strive to find a way of redeeming the excesses of hidding by deeming the excesses of bidding by unusual methods of play. basis of a minimum North holding, then North certainly can make an immediate Slam try by bidding four notrump.

South probably should have passed the bid of four notrump, but he thought his partner was using the Four-Five Notrump Slam Bidding Convention, and felt obligated to find some response to what he con-strued as a Forcing bid.

The only chance now of making the hand rested on a finesse in the spade suit, as South had been compelled to abandon all hope of ruffing the last losing diamond, due to the fact that his hand did not contain sufficient entries. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When Mary Sawyer is 18 sue obtains the permission of her father, Dr. Mansfield Sawyer, to leave her Millstream. Va. home to learn dress designing in Hollywood. She meets Freckle Bryan, a movie extra, and goes to life with her. Freckle takes her to a charity fair at the beautiful estate of Curt Little, movie producer, wao recognizes Mary as the daughte of the man who stole the love of his wife in Virginia 20 years ago. Instantly he is determined to revenge himself through pretty Mary. He had written to Glorida, his wife of a rear, only once while on his way to Oklahoma, telling her she could have their home and small bank account. Tom has made the cross-country trip in the old car he assembled from odd parts. When Mary returns at 3 in the morning, she upbraids him for following her. After a scene, he leaves, saving she can reach him at the "T." When he goes, Mary breaks down and sobs, but all the calls are for Freckle. That might be the avenue through which he limits he the avenue through which he limits he had been brought up by all the old southern rules of chivalry where at woman's honor was more important than her life. If he planned that sort of revenge he could not go about it bluntly.

From the innocent look of childish gratitude in Mary's big gray eyes he knew there had been no hought of so coutery when she had thrown her arms around him. He might just as well have been an old decrepit grandfather-who had given her a stick of the permint candy. So, when with an excited little guile of laughter Mary took her hands from around him neck and dropped them in her lap with a happy sigh, he tilted her chin in a fatherly gesture.

By JOHN L. COOLEY. NEW YORK, July 14.-(A)-Stocks were more sedate today as profit-takers hastened to harvest part of recent gains. On the whole, leaders finished with moderate losses.

The market was still lively, though volume dipped to 5,244,440 shares from yesterday's three-year recordbreaker. Wheat's strong finish, an improvement in cotton and a new high for the bond composite helped the general average for all markets.

The dollar steadied in foreign exchange trading. Trade surveys repeated the story of business progress, while a few earnings reports indicated that the gain has been translated into profits. June cotton consumption, according to the census bureau, was the best on record for that month, being more than double a year ago and comfortably above May. Volume was built up heavy purchases in anicipation of higher prices as well as by actual expansion in mill activity.

Profit taking also embraced distillery issues but trading in that group continued in heavy volume. United Molasses experienced another huge turnover. Transfers in this low-priced issue approximated 300,000 shares, despite a narrow change.

Hiram Walker met persistent realizing and finished off 3 5-8. Others of the so-called "wet" group that conceded a point or more included Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Armstrong Cork and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams.

Among industrials, Aluminum Com-Among industrials. Aluminum Company of America, Glen Alden Coal and Swift & Co. were steady to firm while opposite tendencies were noted in Driver. Harris, New Jersey Zinc and General Tire & Rubber. Leading utility and mining issues were lower, while oils conceded losses of fractions to a point except in Standard Oil of to a point except in Standard Oil of Ohio which closed up a point. Reces-sions of around a point or so were shown in Electric Bond & Share, Newmont, American Gas & Electric, Hum-ble and Gulf Oll. Transfers approximated 1,444,000 shares with yesteday's record turnover of 1,934,000.

Prices sold back to the 12-cent level for December, or even with the high point of Thursday, but the advance was checked by realizing in the later trading and there were partial reac-tions with December closing at 11.88.

The general market closed barely

The general market closed barely steady at net advances of 14 to 21 points higher. Active months sold about 7 to 13 points net lower under the early pressure, but after these offerings had been absorbed, there was not a great deal of cotton for sale apparently, and the market responded to moderate buying orders, which appeared to come from commission and local sources.

The report of the census bureau placing domestic consumption for June at 696,472 bales, or the highest for any one month on record, helped the mid-day market but was about in line with expectations based on recent forecasts. Liverpool cables said that business there had been greatly restricted by acreage uncertainty, but that the per-sistance of the western drouth was a sustaining factor.

Exports today, 55,952, making 8,177,400 so far this season. Port receipts, 29,385. United States port stocks, 3,261,855. Houses with Liverpool and conti-nental connections were among the buyers here during the early trading. General business was less active than earlier in the week, with the market correspondingly more responsive to moderate orders either way, but there were spurts of activity, particularly on the early afternoon advance. Con ment was aroused by the continued free movement of cotton to spinners with forwardings of 329,000 bales to the world's mills indicated by the New York cotton exchange figures for this week against 179,000 last year. In this connection it was pointed out as an unusual feature that forward ings for the season to date were exactly the same as the into-sight movement totaling 13.717,000 bales.

Summaries of June activity, the agency said, "confirmed a more rapid rise and wider gains over last year's record than the weekly reports had indicated."

"The more phenomenal phase in the delineation of these reports is furnished by the lack of a discernible trade of reactionary tendencies, even after 15 weeks of uninterrupted expansion. The usual summer let-down is receiving minor consideration as more industries are found to be sufficiently booked to carry current high operating schedules into September. Constantly enlarging orders are being received for foodstuffs, shoes, readyto-wear clothing, millinery, machinery and equipment, iron and steel prod-ucts, and to some extent for building

ivening-out of trading positions. FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER—
Evening-out of trading positions may bring further irregularity into trading during the short session Saturday.

COURTS & CO.—The action of the market Friday would indicate that there is still a large investment and speculative demand for stocks which is as yet unfilled. This, of course, is a great element of strength, and should prevent any sharp declines.

BEER & CO.—The ability of, stocks to hold up under selling and the contracting of volume on declines indicates the probabilities of further advances in the near future.

bilities of further advances in the Edit.

DOBBS & CO.—Friday's market made no serious approach to Thursday's highs and the tendency of active issues to lose ground continued. It now appears possible the lower limits of the trading range may be tested before the upper.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—Aside from the possibility of an important advance in the dollar or warning from Washington against speculation we can not see anything in the situation which might be anything beyond ordinary technical setbacks.

COTTON OPINIONS.
FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER—
We believe that contracts should be accumulated on all recessions.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—With the acreage reduction generally expected it should have little market effect aside from a possibly short flurry.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER— We believe wheat should be bought only on setbacks, and would prefer to take profits in the corn market while the pre-ent unsettled weather condition continues.

Game was first conceived, it seemed that such a feature would enlist attention, and that such attention would certainly serve to turn the trend of thought of no inconsiderable number of people to a subject away from the hum-drum materialities of everyday life. In this day and time, the pulpits of churches of every denomination are occupied by ministers and clergymen of superb mental endowments and of high order of oratorical power. It is indeed, a treat to hear these men of the cloth expound the Scriptugs.

To go to church is, to millions of our people, the rarest of privileges. It would be so esteemed by non-churchgoers could they but understand the worth of it; if they could but know the wonderful beauty of the lessons that are taught from these pulpits. these pulpits.

Understanding and appreciation can come only by church attendance, and regular church attendance.

Postmaster-General James A. Farley, L. W. Robert Jr., of Atlanta, assistant secretary of the treasury, and several other administration officials arrived in Atlanta early Friday night on their way to Memphis, where the postmaster-general will deliver an address tonight.

They came from Washington by plane as guests of Thomas B. Doe, president of the Eastern Air Transpresident of the Eastern Air Transport, Inc., and planned to take off from Candler field today in time to put them in Memphis by 3:30 o'clock. Also in the group were W. W. Howes, second assistant postmaster-general; Silliman Evans, fourth as sistant postmaster-general; K. P. Al-drich, chief of the postoffice inspection division; Richard F. Roper, executive secretary of the democratic national committee; Major A. V. Dalrymple, director of prohibition; Major Emil Huria, special assistant to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and Harllee Branch, executive assistant to the postmaster-general.

It was explained that the stop in Atlanta was merely to break the jour-ney, and without political significance. The group were guests of John A. Brice, secretary and treasurer of the Atlanta Jorunal, for dinner. They were stopping at the Biltmore hotel.

"Strictly Personal" is the feature attraction on the new program which opens a three-day engagement at the Rialto theater today. Marjorie Rambeau, one of the finest actresses who has made a great name on the screen after years of distinguished appearances on the stage, is the central figure of a cast which also boasts Eddie Quillan, Dorothy Jordan, Edward Ellis, etc.,

It is a charmingly human story, with elements of melodrama mixed delightfully with a clever romance. It deals with one of those organizations peculiar to the modern big city, a love and see torn between the reaction of the stage of screen. A vital dramatic story of the people behind the production of a great Broadway show, "Gold Diggers of 1933" would be a great picture even without the enhancement of the spectacular musical show setting. Combined with these it is said to present the greatest amusement values of this or any other year's productions.

Bob Hess, as his organ solo, will further display his genius at the keyboard of the Wurlitzer with an arrangement of the most popular song of its type, "St. Louis Blues."

"Penthouse," a Betty Boop cartoon, and Paramount sound news will complete a well-balanced program.

lightfully with a clever romance. It deals with one of those organizations peculiar to the modern big city, a "lonely hearts" club where strangers, alone in the metropolis, may go to meet others and thus form innocent and pleasant social contacts.

Marjorie Rambeau and Edward Ellis are a devoted couple who are trying to overcome a shady past, during which the man has served time as a convict, and make of themselves decent and respected citizens.

Clever short subjects are also to be found on the new bill carefully selected by Manager W. T. Murray, thus rounding out a bargain program of excellent entertainment in a theater kept healthfully comfortable even in the hottest of summer weather.
